KPCC: Congress members, advocates, officials gather in LA to discuss immigration reform

Congress members, immigration advocates and officials from U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services all met Tuesday in downtown Los Angeles. The group has gathered to support President Barack Obama's recent attempts at immigration reform.

Xavier Becerra, a Democratic congressman, recently said that "Americans know that our immigration system is badly broken... and President Obama is right."

Becerra joined Congresswoman Lucille Roybal-Allard and Judy Chu in praising Obama in his efforts to streamline immigration enforcement.
